

Noralee Cole's Biography

Noralee Cole is the Procurement Analyst for the Office of Health Equity (Office). Her areas of expertise are processing service orders, contracts, and purchases. She also tracks invoices for the California Reducing Disparities Project. Her state service began at the Department of Health Services and Employment Development Departments when she was a mere child. Noralee learned about many California programs and initiatives through 15 years with the Public Health Institute. She has served many diverse programs in the Department of Public Health (CDPH). As a native Sacramentan, she is excited to help support the many underserved communities in California through work in the Office.

Noralee coordinated the Health and Human Services Agency Health Walkway at Native American Day for the last four years and led a team from the Office to increase donations to the CDPH annual food drive by almost 14 percent in 2018-2019.

Noralee has seen improvement in all aspects of her career through Toastmasters membership for more than 21 years. She loves spending time with family and actively volunteering in the community. Her passions are travel, life-long learning, singing, and visiting her brother and brother-in-law in Puerto Vallarta.
